

Invented story about the death of a refugee in Berlin

A refugee helper has invented the case of a dead asylum seeker in Berlin.

The police and senate administration then tried to verify the story. But neither the emergency rooms of the 39 reception hospitals nor the fire department knew about the dead refugee.

Later on, the helper admitted to having thought up the story. His motive is unknown